Controlability's smart phone technology is revolutionising the way we live and control the modern apartment environment. The latest tablet and bay station is not only your intercom & access control, it is also your home phone & internet access point. The wireless functionality allows the resident to answer the intercom from anywhere within the apartment from either the tablet or the DECT handset.

View any one of the many applications from the comfort of your lounge chair. Book community facilities at a touch of a button or control your lights and TV from one central control.

The New Signature™ Tablet now brings the latest in technology at a cost effective price that any developer can afford.
